

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transmitter identification code is designed such that the code varies as the code is assigned. In one embodiment the code will include information with regard to the date and time that the code is initially determined. In a second embodiment the code is provided by incrementing a counter, and then modifying that counter information such that the final code is non-sequential.

N:\Clients\SIEMENS\Ip00204\PATENT\Application.doc

11/03/2000 11:03:20